Get your slice of the R100 billion telecommunications industry in South Africa

The telecommunications industry in South Africa is worth R100 billion, and up until now this space has been viciously guarded by government and the current monopolies.

But we have changed the rules...

A South African 1st, you have the opportunity to:

- Earn huge profits by running your own telecommunications business.
- Save your customers a substantial amount on their telecommunication costs.
- Earn money BACK on incoming calls.

All with the incredibly low capital outlay of only R780!

You may find this hard to believe, but it's very real. You need to grab this once in a lifetime opportunity with both hands TODAY!

Just imagine...

- Building your own telecommunications business without having to invest in any infrastructure, staff, systems or stock.
- Being able to build a successful business by offering consumers A BETTER OPTION for the services that they already need and use!
- Developing your own network of dealers.
- Never having to worry about billing, customer support or any admin functions.
- And best of all....receive an ongoing passive income for life.

But that's not all...

Our unique business opportunity, along with the enormous growth potential of direct selling, coupled with the exploding growth of telecommunications, has created one of the greatest business opportunities of your lifetime!

Why Vox?

- Vox Telepreneur's strength, stability and quality is combined with 11 years' experience in the Telco sector and underwritten by AltX-listed Vox Telecom Limited (rated as one of the top telecommunications providers in South Africa).
- Vox Telepreneur is the first communications company in South Africa to offer significant residual income from phone calls and Internet access.
- Vox Telepreneur is the first telecommunications company in South Africa to utilise network marketing as a business model.

that's why!

Gerrard Smith: Somerset West

I have been a Vox Telepreneur Dealer for just over a year and have just achieved over R100,000 in commission in one month. I was attracted because of the passive income, and currently earn between R30,000 and R50,000 monthly from annuity revenue alone. What I want people to know is they must approach this as a business, not just a bit of extra money in their pocket - although it's only a small investment in the beginning, the rewards can be substantial. A lot of people don't take it further than talking to their friends and family - that's not enough. The training and support takes a lot of effort, but it is worth persisting as there is definitely money to be made! A recurring income from something people use every day anyway - you don't get that opportunity very often.

Don't just take our word for it

Thomas Reid: Centurion

Changing your life through Vox Telepreneur is not only possible but has become a reality for me. You only need dedication and the willingness to work hard at it. Starting a business for R780 is totally unheard of...starting a business with the potential profit margins of the Vox Telepreneur offering just does not exist. I signed up immediately and got to work. Now, this is the important part: you have to get to work! I see many Vox Telepreneurs signing up and then never selling anything! This is crazy! How can they not even "sell" one FREE fax to email number!? I just decided that we will not miss out on this opportunity and immediately trained up staff members to start making calls. In my six months I have sold in excess of 2,000 Vox ADSL Phones and close to 3,000 free fax-to-email numbers. At the end of this period I was already earning in excess of R80,000 per month and I earned a total of over R250,000 in just six months! My goal is to grow our monthly annuity commission to at least R500,000 which I believe is very possible. As Vox Telepreneur introduce more and more exciting products into the mix, the goal of R500,000 will obviously also increase substantially.

Frank Marais: Bloemfontein

I became a Vox Telepreneur dealer because I saw the opportunity a year before I became involved. I did my due diligence and decided that this was the company that I could rely on to help me with my pension, and it's working for me!

James Barclay: Johannesburg

I joined the Vox Telepreneur family about a year ago as a Dealer. What drew me to Vox Telepreneur was the annuity income and the slice of the huge telecoms pie in South Africa. My aim was to get to Satellite status within 6 months. It took me a bit longer - about twelve months - but I am earning over R10,000 per month and my goal is to get to R100,000 per month in the next twelve months.

Gary Webster: Johannesburg

I have been in the telecommunications industry for over 18 years. The reason I chose Vox Telepreneur is the annuity income aspect. I reached Satellite status within ten months and currently have seventy Dealers below me. I am already earning over R10,000 per month and my goal is to be making between R50,000 and R100,000 per month within the next twelve months.

Gerard Kavonic: Johannesburg

When I first came across the Vox Telepreneur opportunity it appealed to me on many levels but the one thing that made sense to me was that you could generate passive income for the years ahead. Secondly, the products work fantastically and I have been using the Vox ADSL Phone for over a year, and I am absolutely delighted with it.

Leila Khulmann: Johannesburg

I am building this business because I have been involved with other networking businesses and when I saw the residual income that you could earn it blew my mind. What fired me up was that I didn't have to resell it again each month.

Thando: Johannesburg

I am doing this because it is one of the few industries where you can obtain an annuity income. In Zulu we call this "Imali yezipokwe imali engapheli". This will create and help me build a legacy for my children and also help other people save money on their telecommunication costs.

Marc and Debbie Harford: Durban

Our Vox Telepreneur experience has been really rewarding for myself and my wife. My wife runs a small business from our home in Umhlanga Rocks, and does spend a lot of time on the phone to her customers all over the country. Before we were introduced to Vox Telepreneur our phone bill was in the region of R1,500 per month - a healthy whack for a small business. In the world that we are living in today we all need to cut down our monthly costs. Enter Vox Telepreneur. We reduced our monthly telephone cost by a whopping R600 per month. I was so impressed by the savings that we achieved that we decided to look at the Vox Telepreneur business opportunity. I started off really slowly but soon gained momentum. In the short space of one year doing the business on a very part time basis, we are now earning over R3,000 residual income per month AND still enjoying huge savings on our telephone bill!
