- Secure faxing environment

Product overview

Fax still remains the most effective option for delivering critical documents and BulkFax, from Vox, is an online tool that enables companies to send customised faxes to multiple fax numbers automatically. It offers full mail merge functionality and accurate reporting at the click of a button. BulkFax is a secure, point-to-point service that offers hassle-free sending of documents such as purchase orders, invoices, statements, letters of demand and application forms.

In the past, businesses needing to send large volumes of customised faxes frequently would need to create, print and fax multiple documents one at a time. With BulkFax, businesses have access to an online tool that allows them to customise their faxes (name, address, monetary value, etc.) and send to multiple fax numbers.

How it works

Features

- Mail merge capabilities that allow unlimited merged fields
- Full fax sending status reporting, including:
 - Successful faxes
 - Failed faxes (with reason)
 - Date and time stamps
 - Subject or reference field per fax
- Usage reports, including:
 - Faxes sent – per department and per user
 - Cost per campaign
- Multiple document formats can be faxed, including Word, images and PDF files
- Preview batches before they are sent
- Negligible bandwidth utilisation. BulkFax requires one upload of the template, not each individual fax
- An online audit trail, including proof of delivery, date and time stamp and fax movement history
- An online support centre
