Product Overview

While security is top of mind for all business owners, in today's uncertain times, so is cost saving. Unfortunately in the world of security, one cannot be at the expense of the other. Moving away from traditional guarding, or at least cutting down on guarding compliment by subsidising it with off-site monitoring, actually enhances security while reducing expenditure - as much as 50%.

Using technology to drive actionable intelligence ensures improved service delivery. Technology that never sleeps empowers the end user to make informed decisions while securing your site, ultimately improving the quality of your security.

Being able to monitor multiple branches from a single point not only ensures a sound return on investment by cutting down on unnecessary expenses, but also enables an in-depth comprehensive understanding of your global security risks.

Service deliver is further enhanced by data rich incident reporting, not only driving better results, but also allows for detailed post-event analysis to improve your risk profile in future.
